

GOULD'S NEW ATALANTA IN A BLAZE OF LOYAL GLORY.

The Atalanta Saluting the Tomb of Grant.

George Gould's new yacht was wonderfully illuminated with electric lights last night, lying first for some hours in the East River, off Bellevue, and then proceeding around into the North River, where she saluted Grant's Tomb. Mr. Gould entertained a party of twenty-five guests on board.

Thousands Watched the Wonderful Display, First in the East River and Then in the North, Where a Salute Was Fired Before Grant's Tomb.

George Gould entertained a party of twenty-five guests on board his new yacht Atalanta last night, and incidentally furnished pleasure to thousands who gathered along the river to the north and south of the city, where she lay. The display of fireworks sent up from her deck was a blaze of light, and the hundred incandescent electric lights had been strung from the bow to the stern, where they crossed, being strung in double strings of lights in the form of a net. The wonderful effect of the array of incandescent lights was a monster searchlight, which swept alternately the New York and Long Island shores, making everything they touched as distinct as day. The light would be turned full upon the adjoining piers, illuminating the crowds that packed them, much to their delight. It was estimated that there were at least 5,000 persons on the Recreation Pier at the foot of East Twenty-fourth street alone. The Sixty-ninth Regiment Musical Band was playing on the pier.

All the inmates of Bellevue who could even hobble about went to the seawall bounding the grounds of the institution to take in the wondrous scene, and the less fortunate were forced to be content with glimpses of vantage at windows or on the fire escapes. Mr. Gould entertained about twenty-five guests on board his yacht, which was in charge of Captain Todd. The came aboard a little after 7 o'clock in the evening. The yacht lay about 150 feet off the sea wall, and on one of her trips her little steam launch that brought the guests aboard, got out of order and refused to budge. Mr. Gould himself took charge of one of the yacht's boats with five seamen and towed the launch out to the yacht again. The yacht was lying over what is known as Bellevue Flats, in Kip's Bay. Before 11 o'clock in the evening the yacht got under way, and steamed down East River to the Battery. Rounding the Battery, the Atalanta steamed up North River to a point off Grant's Tomb, where the searchlight was cast shoreward, lighting up the mausoleum while a salute was fired.

GOULD'S POLO TEAM SCORES A VICTORY

Lakewoods Defeat the Seconds of the Rockaway Hunt Club.

That favorites do not always win was again clearly demonstrated this evening on the picturesque polo field of the Rockaway Hunt Club at Cedarhurst, L. I., when the second team of the Rockaway Hunt Club and the team of the Lakewood Polo Club played one of the series of matches for the Bilzard Cup. Several hundred sports people from the Rockaway, Meadow Brook, Staten Island and Lakewood clubs witnessed the match. The score was Lakewood, 10 goals; Rockaway, 5 goals.

The Long Island team did not appear to be up to their best form, and the fleet footed ponies of the Lakewood team combined with the excellent team and individual plays by every member of the New Jersey team won the day. Dallett, of the Lakewoods, played a brilliant game for his team, and with the hard work of P. E. Collier, who played back to perfection, they on several occasions carried the ball down the field, regardless of opposition, and landed it between their goal posts.

George Gould, the organizer of the team, did effective work in riding off. He also made a number of rushes that were very effective at numerous stages of the game. For the Rockaway team R. LeMontagne, Jr., and Francis LeMontagne carried away the bulk of the honors. The teams, their handicaps and summaries follow:

REAR ADMIRAL DETAINED AT HOFFMAN ISLAND.

Havana's Naval Commandant Neglected to Get Acclimatization Papers When Coming Here.

Because he had neglected to obtain acclimatization papers from the United States Health Officer in Havana, Rear Admiral B. J. Cromwell, who has had charge of the United States naval station at the Cuban capital for nearly a year, was sent yesterday to Hoffman Island. The Rear-Admiral arrived here on the Ward liner Havana, which made the trip in two days and seventeen hours. The quarantine regulations require that a vessel shall be five days out of a Cuban port to insure the landing of her passengers here—unless they have certificates showing that they have become immune to the Cuban climate, and are no longer in danger of yellow fever. This Rear-Admiral Cromwell did not possess.

Lieutenant J. F. Stephens and General Carlos Garcia, also voyagers on the Havana, were likewise transferred to Hoffman Island. They will remain there, it is said, until tomorrow. Friends of the Rear Admiral in New York regarded his being quarantined as a little strict in view of the well-known fact that he had been in Havana for almost a year. Health Officer Doty was not at home last night.

HEADLESS BODY IN A BAG.

It Is Found Floating in the Susquehanna at Plymouth.

Wilkesbarre, July 4.—The headless body of a man was found, tied in a bag, in the Susquehanna River, near Plymouth, this afternoon. The body had been in the water several days. It is that of a man who probably weighed more than 200 pounds, and was quite tall.

THEIR KEPT THE DOCTORS BUSY

List of Toy Cannon and Giant Cracker Victims Is Very Large.

YOUNG AND OLD HURT.

Every Ambulance in the City Kept Going from Dawn to Midnight.

The chances are that there are more wounded survivors of the Fourth of July in New York and vicinity to-day than there are wounded survivors of the Spanish war. Ambulances attached to every hospital in the city were kept on the jump from early morning until late at night and the number of accidents reported by the police was unusually large.

The growing tendency to use enormous firecrackers was responsible for hundreds of injuries to boys and men, while the deadly toy pistol worked unceasingly. No actual fatalities were reported, though deaths from injuries received may result. Wounds in the hands, inflicted by toy pistols, make surgeons fear many cases of lockjaw.

The following is a list of the wounded attended to in hospitals in New York and the neighborhood about the city—a very small percentage of the whole:

Toy Cannon and Gunshot Wounds.
ROSA BISTEPNO, thirty years old, No. 60 Varick street.
JOHN COLLINS, fifty-five years old, No. 434 East Sixteenth street.

Victims of Practical Jokers.
George Biehl, thirty-three years old, No. 3108 Third street, was struck in the face by the front of a baby carriage Biehl was pushing. He chased the joker, fell through the glass door of a school and severed an artery in his left hand. Victor Stoebel, thirty-nine years old, No. 128 Commodore street, was struck by a cannon cracker thrown by a child. John Harlow, of this city, had his shoe torn off by a cannon cracker thrown at his feet by Atlantic City jokers.

LITTLE GIRL BURNED SO BADLY SHE WILL DIE.

Adelaide Bischoff, eight years old, was exploding firecrackers with her two younger brothers, Harry and Alvin, in the hall of their home at No. 301 West One Hundred and Sixteenth street, yesterday afternoon, when a piece of punk set fire to her dress.

All ablaze she ran across the street, where an unknown cyclist jumped from his wheel and wrapped his coat about the child. Three other persons assisted to extinguish the flames and all had their hands severely burned. Mrs. Bischoff saw the child as she ran across the street and tried to follow her by jumping out of a second story window. She was restrained by neighbors. Adelaide was burned from head to foot. Even her hair was singed off. She was taken to J. Hood-Wright Hospital, and will die.

Max Boginsky, eleven years old, of No. 90 Ridge street, was struck in the face by an exploding skyrocket. He will lose the sight of his left eye. The boy was taken to Gouverneur Hospital.

FAREWELL TO STAGE BLONDES; TO THE BRUNETTES, ALL HAIL!

Two Stage Beauties, Representing the "New" and the "Old."

Although the edict has gone forth that the public taste respecting stage beauty has switched from blonde to brunette, Irene Bentley is such a perfect type of the former that Manager Lederer retains her among his Casino forces. Violet Hollis's dark fascinations are considered to be representative of what is now wanted in stage presentations in which women figure numerously.

ARBITRATORS TO CALL ON VREELAND.

State Board Will Try to Settle Metropolitan Grievances.

DEMANDS OF THE MEN.

They Want 22-1-2 Cents an Hour Instead of Being Paid by the Trip.

The State Board of Arbitration is to be asked to take a hand in the controversy between President Vreeland, of the Metropolitan Traction Company and his employers over the demand made by the latter that they be paid at the rate of 22½ cents per hour.

The Board, at its meeting to-day, will be waited upon by General Master Workman John W. Parsons, of the Knights of Labor, who will make the request that it step into the breach.

Mr. Parsons believes that if the Board appoints a committee to wait upon Mr. Vreeland and discuss the situation, the matter will soon be righted and the demands of the men receive recognition.

The trouble between the men and the men and the inspectors will also be brought to the attention of the Board by Mr. Parsons. "The men's demand for 22½ cents per hour, instead of being paid by the trip, is perfectly just," said Mr. Parsons yesterday. "I am sure the State Board of Arbitration will take the matter in hand." Several other grievances of the men will also be presented to the board by Mr. Parsons, who said, however, that he didn't care to discuss them until he had called upon the Arbitration Commissioners. Metropolitan conductors and motormen with whom a Journal reporter talked yesterday said that their only complaint was due to the time schedules on some lines, which stretched the day's work over too many hours. They believed that a readjustment of the schedules would be granted by the State Board of Arbitration. Seven hundred employees of the mechanical and traction departments of the Metropolitan Traction Company will be on strike tomorrow, if the State Board of Arbitration does not grant their demands by then.

COURT UPHOLDS CONSUL PRATT; STOPS A BOOK SALE.

Holds That the Aguinaldo-Pratt Interview Is False and Libels the Latter.

San Francisco, July 4.—The steamship Coptic brings the following advices from Singapore relative to the alleged promises of United States Consul Pratt regarding Filipino independence: Spencer Pratt, United States Consul, has taken legal action to disprove the alleged interview, in which he was said to have promised the Philippine leaders independence if they would help the United States against Spain. The story is published in most circumstantial and detailed form in the new edition of John Foreman's book on the Philippines.

Consul Pratt has sued the publishers in Singapore for libel, on the ground that the story of the Aguinaldo-Pratt interview is false, and moreover injurious. The court finds that the story of the interview is false and libellous, and the further publishing thereof is prohibited.

NEWPORT CLUB MEN HAVE A CLAM BAKE.

Society People at the Summer Resort Celebrate the Fourth in Many Ways.

Newport, R. I., July 4.—It was a big day with Newport society, and the leading event was the annual outing of the Clam Bake Club at the "Shanty" at Easton's Point.

About thirty well-known club men attended. Target practice was indulged in, and the feature of the day was the firing of a national salute with rifles. The election of officers was passed, and Center Hitchcock still remains president. Commodore E. T. Gerry gave a luncheon and sail on the steam yacht Electra in honor of Admiral Sampson. Other social events were luncheon by Mrs. James P. Kernochan and Mrs. Potter Palmer, and dinner to-night by Sidney Webster, Mrs. George I. Rives, Mrs. E. J. Berwind, Mrs. William Grosvenor and Miss C. Ogden Jones.

The thirty footers had a race, Harry Payne Whitney winning again, with Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., a close second and Reginald Brooks third.

Only Two Rare Fair Specimens Are Retained at the Casino, for Manager Lederer Declares the Day of Blondes Is Past.

If it is said, but true, Fashion has decreed the stage "blonde" to the rear rank of the chorus, and before long may push her off the boards altogether. The news has come suddenly. Yesterday, these same blondes had nothing on their minds but their hats. They were happy. But to-day! Having read in the Journal that fashion had become tired of their snail tresses, they are enveloped in gloom.

"It's awful," said one of them. "If we had been warned, it wouldn't have been so hard. But many of us ladies have got on our summer hair and—Sif!—Oh, of course, you don't understand. You see, every summer, we impulsive blondes have our hair toned up. It's our own hair, of course, but we have had to help nature a bit. Now, if we had been told, we might have taken different tone—Tilian red, for instance, or Honolulu brown."

"That's where all the trouble has come in. It doesn't make so much difference if you are a really, truly blonde. Then you can choose any tone you want, and get it at the corner drug store. But when you have become blonde impulsively, you've got to wait till the color wears out, and none of us wants to go into the woods for the summer. That's why we feel so badly."

At the Casino the news was eagerly discussed. It was the first time the young women had heard the reason why blondes were rapidly disappearing from among them. Among the principals, only three blondes remain. They are natural blondes, and are an odd lot for all the brunettes on view.

Miss Susan, whose picture was published yesterday in the Journal, is one of the three. The other two are Miss Irene Bentley and Miss Susan. Manager Lederer, who is replete with "The Rounders" company, says they will stay, of course. But no other blondes need apply.

The Journal today presents the portrait of Miss Irene Bentley, a natural blonde. "She is so beautiful," says Mr. Corbett, "that she will never remain popular." Beside Miss Bentley appears Miss Violet Hollis, of "The Man in the Moon." She is a pure type of the brunette, the one to whom fashion now bows down in worship.

YACHT WRECKED IN FRONT OF A HOTEL.

Sloop Blanche Goes to Pieces on the Bulkhead at Manhattan Beach.

Manhattan Beach was treated yesterday afternoon to the spectacle of real wreck. A stage manager could not have arranged it any better, for the ill-fated craft came to grief right up against the bulkhead opposite the Oriental Hotel.

She was the Blanche, a big sloop of the Narcissus Yacht Club fleet, commanded by John Sutter, and manned by Herman Hoekhausen, Robert Topplin and F. J. Earls. Running into Sheephead Bay from the open sea, she parted with her tender, and immediately put about to recover it. But the little skiff had been swamped by the heavy seas, and in the maneuvering that followed the Blanche was driven so close to the bulkhead that all efforts to gain headway into deep water came to naught.

The anchor was cast, but it dragged and the yacht was driven head on against the bulkhead, ripping off her bowsprit. The next breaker hurled her broadside against the spiles, the hatchways snapped, the gaff came down with rum, nearly knocking the crew into the water. They were pulled ashore but the yacht ended in total wreck.

SAT ON A LOADED PISTOL; NOW HE STANDS UP.

Italian Barber Seriously Wounded While Preparing to Celebrate the Fourth.

Joseph Grecco, although an Italian barber, wanted to celebrate the Fourth yesterday. With this idea in view, he got out a big revolver which he keeps at his home, 3471 Third avenue. Just as he had finished loading the weapon some friends called on him.

Grecco left his revolver on a barrel and entertained his callers. When they had gone he went back to where he came from and deliberately sat down on the barrel, and incidentally on the revolver. Suddenly the revolver reminded him that he was sitting on it by going off.

The ball entered Grecco's back and lodged in his abdomen. He was taken to the Fordham Hospital, where Dr. Dronn probed for the ball. Grecco's condition is serious.
